

Katerina Panagopoulou

Assistant Professor in Ancient History, Department of History and Archaeology, UoC

E-mail: panagop@uoc.gr

Office No.: 38, Department of History and Archaeology

Telephone: 28310 -77357

<https://www.history-archaeology.uoc.gr/en/the-department/research-and-teaching-staff-2/katerina-panagopoulou/?lang=en>

Katerina Panagopoulou studied History and Archaeology at the University of Athens, Greece (1993) and obtained her PhD at the History Department at University College London (2000). On a postdoctoral level, she has been Fellow at the Program of Hellenic Studies at the University of Princeton (2002) and at the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford (2003). She currently teaches Hellenistic and Roman History at the University of Crete (as from 2004) and has taught (as a Teaching Assistant) at Royal Holloway College / University of London and independently at the Universities of Patrae, Corfu (Ionion) and at the Hellenic Open University. Her research interests encompass ancient numismatics, the economic behavior of precious metals (primarily silver and gold) in the Hellenistic and Roman periods, demography, politics and economy in Hellenistic and Roman Macedonia, Social Network Analysis and economic history, social history of the Hellenistic and Roman periods. She is the author of: The Early Antigonids: Coinage, Money and the Economy, N. York: American Numismatic Society Special Series, 2017.